WHAT CAN I WIN:

$150 will be paid out at the end of each quarter (no overtimes)

$50 Paid to the exact yard line winner

$30 Paid to each person within one yard of the winner

$20 Paid to each person within two yards of the winner

HOW DOES IT WORK?

You will be given a team that must have the ball and you will be given a yard line.

-Example: Suppose you have the Pittsburgh Steelers on the Green Bay Packers 20 yard line. If the Pittsburgh Steelers have the ball at this position at the end of a quarter, you would win $50. If you are within 1 yard (either side) of the final spot you win $30. If you are within 2 yards (either side) of the final spot, you win $20.

-If you are assigned the goal line as your yard line you will win $50 if your team scores a touchdown on the final play of a quarter. If a field goal is kicked (made or missed) at the end of a quarter, the winning yard line will be from where the ball was snapped. However, if a missed field goal is returned by the opposing team, the winning yard line will be where the play ends.

-Final yard line determinations will be made using official NFL statistics via www.nfl.com
